Bring your projects to life. Wood veneered panels manufactured by Losán are made from the highest quality wood, interpreting the language of nature. Spaces created with wood are always extremely elegant and striking. Wood is a natural element and an organic form that transmits sensations which cannot be imitated by artificial materials.

Losán manufactures veneered panels for different uses in its factories in Emmen, Holland. Its technical properties and aesthetic qualities make it the ideal decorative solution for both residential and commercial areas.

Losán's key to offering the best service is their flexibility while working closely with architects, designers and furniture manufacturers. The heart and soul of Losán can be found in forests; the conservation and regeneration of forests is their interest and one of their top priorities.
